Green Vase® is a very much more upright tree than Village Green™. It's form is more like the native Elm, gracefully arching at a height. As with Village Green™ this tree is tolerant to pollution and drought, and makes a very good urban tree, either on the street or in yards. More than most large trees, Zelkova tends to develop limb crotches with included bark. It is very important to remove any suspect limbs early in development. Fall color on this tree is burnt umber, which to laymen means dirty earthen orange. But at times, its fall color is quite nice. Robinson Nursery offers this tree as bare root whips and branched trees.
